To IDWR Rule Making Committee

I appreciated the opportunity to testify at the Video Conference January 4, 2007 concerning IDWR proposed regulations.

I have been licensed in Idaho since the late sixty's.

In thousands of wells, drilling and hydrofracturing, I have not seen failure of PVC as a liner collapsing on the pumps.

To require that all PVC liners be sand packed or sealed is to regulate construction that is not the best design.

The current regulations handle the issue of liners very appropriately.
